Summary: Existing law provides that if a person is convicted as an adult for an offense that the person committed when he or she was less than 18 years of age, the court: (1) is required to consider the differences between juvenile and adult offenders; and (2) after considering such differences, is authorized to reduce the person's sentence. (NRS 176.017) Section 1 of this bill additionally provides that if a person is convicted as an adult for an offense that the person committed when he or she was less than 18 years of age and the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that, during the 1-year period immediately preceding the commission of the offense, the person was a victim of sex trafficking or sexual assault and committed the offense against his or her abuser, the court is authorized to: (1) depart from any mandatory minimum sentence or mandatory additional penalty; (2) suspend any portion of an otherwise applicable sentence; or (3) if the person is less than 21 years of age, deem the person to have committed a delinquent act and transfer the case to the juvenile court for proper disposition.

Section 3 of this bill specifies that such provisions apply to an offense committed: (1) on or after October 1, 2019; and (2) before October 1, 2019, if the person is convicted on or after October 1, 2019.

Summary: Existing law establishes certain minimum periods of incarceration which must be served by a prisoner, before becoming eligible for parole, if the prisoner was sentenced as an adult for certain offenses that were committed when he or she was less than 18 years of age. Existing law provides that such a prisoner is eligible for parole: (1) after 15 years, if the offense or offenses for which the prisoner was convicted did not result in the death of a victim; or (2) after 20 years, if the offense or offenses for which the prisoner was convicted resulted in the death of only one victim. (NRS 213.12135) Section 1 of this bill provides that such a prisoner is eligible for parole after 20 years, if the offense or offenses for which the prisoner was convicted resulted in the death of one or more victims.
